

NewCollaborative
TEACHING SCHOOL ALLIANCE

Stuart Lewis

- School: Selby High School
- Role: Vice Principal
- Specialism: School design and organisation; Curriculum and the leadership of data; New technologies including online learning.
- Designation: SLE

Personal Biography:

I have worked in maintained secondary schools across the North West of England and Yorkshire for 29 years. I am a Vice Principal and have been a member of the Executive Leadership Team at Selby High School since 2003. I work closely with the Principal, Paul Eckersley and have been instrumental in bringing about sustained improvement in the attainment and progress of the students at the school. The school is rated 'good' by Ofsted and has outstanding results in mathematics, the sciences and ICT.

I have experience in curriculum and assessment fields of education, with expertise in curriculum design and innovation to support learning. I also have expertise in QA and Self-Evaluation processes and resulting development planning. More recently, I have line management for safeguarding and school behaviour again implementing new streamlined systems. I believe strongly that technology is an essential tool in supporting highly productive, smart, efficient and effective schools. My vision is to develop students who are considerate global citizens and who are prepared for a technological future. My implementation of robust and sustainable whole school site solutions for ICT infrastructure, deployment and procurement have been vital in the improvements made at the school. I have created an ethos and expectation that technology supports learning and allows teachers to engage successfully with ICT by embracing online, mobile and traditional PC approaches with students. I have also demonstrated particular abilities in making limited budgets go a 'long way'. I was instrumental in the design, planning and construction of a fantastic ICT suite, which was opened in January 2014 and is now enhancing the experience of all students at the school.